BUENOS AYRES, SATURDAY, MAY 22, 1841.

[Vol. XV.]

BUENOS AYRES.

The Gaceta of Wednesday was published in two sheets. It contained a variety of documents all of which we shall more or less notice, commencing with the following—

The Citizen Agustín Gamarra, Grand Marshal, Restorer of Peru, Generalissimo of the sea and land forces, President of the Peruvian Republic, &c. &c. &c.

To our great and good friend the Governor of Buenos Ayres and Chief of the Argentine Confederation.

GREAT AND GOOD FRIEND,

The confraternity which allies the Argentine Republic with that over which I have the honor to preside, and the alliance of principles which that government has evinced during the epoch of usurpation of which this Republic has been the victim, and which was put an end to through your generous efforts, combined with those of the Republic of Chile and of the oppressed sons of Peru, have caused this Republic to take peculiar interest in the struggle you have sustained with one of the strongest powers of Europe, and in the midst of civil war, in order to preserve the national honor inviolate.

In consequence of this interest, the Convention of the 29th October last, which terminated hostilities with France, is an event which has given much pleasure to this nation, and its government, and stimulated by duty as well as sympathy, I have the satisfaction to forward in the name of the Peruvian Nation, congratulations the most cordial to you and the Argentine People, for the constancy and heroic nationalism displayed under such difficult circumstances; and for the result of the peace which these have obtained.

Accept, therefore, great and good friend, the assurances of my high esteem and distinguished consideration.

Given in the Government Palace at Lima, 24th December 1840.

AGUSTIN GAMARRA.

MANUEL FERREYROS.

The Governor of Buenos Ayres, charged with the Foreign Affairs of the Argentine Confederation,

To our great and good friend the President of the Republic of Peru, Greeting—

GREAT AND GOOD FRIEND,

I have perused with the most lively and profound emotion the friendly letter which you have deigned to address to me under date 24th December.

The Argentine Confederation which nobly sympathized in the efforts to sustain the liberty and principles which obtain throughout the American Continent against the onerous sway of a perfidious conqueror feels infinite pleasure in the glorious manner in which you have congratulated it in the name of Peru on the honorable termination of the differences with France.

I also feel infinite gratification in manifesting to you and the Peruvian People, the sincere thanks of the Argentinians and of myself on the honorable felicitation with which you have favored us. The fulfillment of a strict American duty, which we feel deeply engrained in our hearts, that of a national oath, which it would have been disgraceful to have perjured, and which you and Peru in similar circumstances would have known how to fulfil, could alone have merited such high encomiums from the excess of your generous and benevolent friendship.

Accept, excellent and kind friend, the gratitude, sincere friendship and distinguished esteem with which I offer up prayers to the Omnipotent for the happiness and glory of the heroic Peruvian Nation, and for the preservation of your life to a distant period.

Buenos Ayres, 9th May, 1841.

JUAN MANUEL DE ROSAS.

FELIPE ABANA.

Colonel Mariano Maza, Commander of the Vanguard of the combined army of Cuyo, in pursuance of the powers granted to him by the Commander in Chief of the army Brigadier José Félix Aldao.

CATAMARCAÑOS!—You now enjoy the high rank of free citizens! You are in possession of your dearest rights by the triumph of the arms of the Confederation! The infamous slaves of an impious and barbarous club, enemies of liberty have been humbled to the dust in every place where the arms of liberty have penetrated, as well as degraded by public opinion so decidedly pronounced against them! You are liberated from your tyrannical oppressors, and in a situation to appoint authorities according to your institutions, to preside over you and preserve order! To the end and that the Province assemble in conformity to the Constitution of the country and name the respective authorities, I have published the following articles—

1. The authorities emanating from the recent impious anarchical insurgent unitarians, detractors of order and of the Liberty of the American Continent and of the Argentine Confederation, are suppressed.

2. Col. Eusebio Balboa is named Provisional Governor, in order that he may as soon as possible assemble the Province and elect the authorities according to its institutions.

3. Let this be published.

Catamarca, April 10, 1841.

MARIANO MAZA.

On the same day Col. Maza forwarded a note to Col. Balboa, stating that by authorization of the Commander in Chief he had named him as Provisional Governor of Catamarca.

The Governor elect of Catamarca under date 11th ult., notified his appointment to the Governor of Buenos Ayres, and concluded his communication as follows—

"The Provisional Governor of Catamarca, animated with the most sincere wishes for the welfare of all the Provinces of the Argentine Confederation and for that of the Sacred Federal Cause, will exert himself to preserve inviolate the relations of friendship and good understanding with the Confederate Governments in order to secure in a solid and stable manner the rights which the Federal People have determined to sustain, exterminating for ever the restless band of unitarians.

"God preserve the important life of Y. E. many years.

JUAN EUSEBIO BALBOA.

Pedro Herrera.

(Under Secretary.)

Governor Rosas returned a congratulatory reply to the above under date 15th ult.

The government of Mendoza under date 4th and 6th ult., ordered that all the employes civil and military and other citizens of the Province, should wear the red ribbon around their hats as the emblem of federation.

Also that the officers and soldiers who have fought against the enemies of Federation shall receive grants of land and cattle.

It also addressed a proclamation to the inhabitants of the Province of Mendoza, stating that 300 well armed Federal Mendocinos had marched against a group of miserable and desperate recalcitrant unitarians who had profaned the soil of their allies in the Province of San Juan.

The proclamation concludes as follows—

"FELLOW COUNTRYMEN! The government is resolved to sacrifice even its existence rather than see our beloved land trampled upon by the vile hordes of these accursed men; it would sooner consent that the vast territory of the Province be reduced to a cemetery, to sepulchre alike victims and aggressors, and that posterity should record that the Mendocinos had ceased to exist than that their name be dishonored.

"FELLOW COUNTRYMEN! Loyalty and co-operation are what the government expects from your patriotism, and it declares, that united with you it will participate in your triumphs or seek a death worthy of the brave people over whom it presides.

"JEAN ISIDRO MAZA.

"Leon Correas."

The following relate to new successes over the unitarians in the Provinces of the North.

General Felipe Ibarra, Governor of the Province of Santiago del Estero, under date Santiago 4th ult., forwarded a despatch to General Manuel Oribe, from Commandant Cruz Ignacio Ibarra, dated Chayya 2nd ult., stating, that having received information of Leon Col. Condero being at the pass of Acaestillo, with 200 unitarians waiting the arrival of the miscreant Correntino Colonel Manuel Noguera, in order to place them under his command and attack that department of the Province—he (Com. Ibarra) relying upon the enthusiasm of his troops, departed from the orders he had received to remain stationary, and attacked the unitarians, who fled, leaving behind them some soldiers and an adjutant killed, and Col. Noguera's prisonery, whose Governor Dorra says he shall immediately forward to General Oribe.

Col. Mariano Maza, under date Catamarca 18th ult., enclosed a despatch to General Manuel Oribe from Lieut. Col. Luciano Martinez, with details of a skirmish on 13th ult., in which Commandant Vicente Perez routed a detachment of unitarians, taking their Commander Aljorj Cordova prisoner, who was immediately shot—the vanquished had several killed and others were made prisoners—the victors suffered no loss. Aljorj Cordova is described in a despatch to General Oribe from Col. Mauricio Guzman dated Rosario 18th ult., as having been high in the confidence of Malded and Acha, and that with the exception of those two, he was the most perfidious salvaje unitario in all the Province of Tucuman, and had committed great ravages in Santiago del Estero, &c., therefore his capture is of great importance.

General José Félix Aldao, under date 2nd inst., addressed a note to Governor Rosas enclosing a despatch dated Rioja 23rd ult., from General Nazario Benavides, (second in command) with details of a victory he had obtained on 20th ult., at Tucuman, over 200 men of the escort of Lavalle and Brucelas, who fled in the utmost confusion, and in the attack and pursuit (for 4 leagues) had in officers and soldiers more than 100 killed—they left behind them a quantity of arms amongst the prison-

Extract from a private letter dated Valparaiso 4th March last.

"The election for President of the Republic of Chili is drawing near. The candidates who divide public opinion upon the occasion, and who are striving to obtain the Presidency, are Señor Tocornal, Minister of the Interior and Finance, and General Bulnes, conqueror at Yungay, and Commander in Chief of the permanent army. The present government of Chili is strong, and deserves its influence, notwithstanding the attacks made upon it by the press—it has and continues to evince the most decided sympathy and good will towards the administration of General Rosas.

"The revolution in Peru, headed by Colonel Vivasco, which commenced at Arequipa and was upheld by the despotic Presidency, is entirely put down. It will turn out perhaps an expiring effort of the friends of Santa Cruz."

The Brazilian brigantine of war Argos, fired a salute on Sunday last, at 3 p. m., at her anchorage in the inner roads, in consequence of her having received a visit from the Chargé d'Affaires of H. M. the Emperor of Brazil.

LINES TO E*** ON HER BIRTH-DAY.

May 18, 1841.

Fourteen years after her Marriage.

Love is a gift which comes from Heaven,
 And is to every mortal given;
 But some, alas! I forget too soon
 That 'tis a sacred heavenly boon,
 And for some worthless passion's sake
 Of Love a sacrifice they make.
 From North to South, from East to West,
 In every clime and place,
 Love is implanted in the breast
 Of all the human race.
 If 'tis not pure, it will decay,
 Grow cold, and then will die—
 A Loner false will turn away
 From her he lov'd, and fly.
 But virtuous Love is warm as pure,
 And never will betray;
 Both age and absence 'twill endure
 And never die away.
 My own fond bosom still it warms;
 I'll love you still for ever:
 Tho' Time has prey'd upon your charms
 I'll cease to love you, never!
 When in life's dim last closing hour,
 When all things pass away,
 I'll pray to the Almighty pow'r
 To guard you while you stay;
 And when your own last hour shall come
 To leave this vale of tears,
 That he may take you to that home
 Where are no earthly fears.

From the following extract from a Boston paper, it would seem that Mr. Fox, the British Minister to the United States, has got into 'bad bread' with some of the American Editors—

DIPLOMACY.

Mr. Fox deserves a more peculiar mark of distinction for having suggested an improvement in diplomatic intercourse. We think that all the diplomatists in Continental Europe ought to present him with some testimonial of their admiration, for being the first to take a step in governmental negotiation, of which nobody but an Englishman would ever have dreamed. In his last letter Mr. Forsyth, he says that he does not speak for his government, but records his own opinion and protest upon a national question. His previous letter displayed extraordinary talents for insolence, it being in a tone more rash and arrogant than any thing that we have seen in the annals of diplomacy, since the celebrated letter of his celebrated predecessor Jackson, in which he gave the President the lie direct. But the last out-Jacksons Jackson, and even out-Foxs Fox; for he very complacently lays aside his diplomatic character and addresses our government in his private capacity! Think of that, ye diplomatists who have been taught that good breeding was a requisite in your trade; who have been taught that none but a gentleman was qualified for a negotiator! Think of that, ye ruffians and blackguards, who feel that to trample upon all the laws of conventional good breeding, as well as all the moral principles of real politeness, is a glorious principle; who question a British Minister Plenipotentiary as an illustrious authority for your rudeness and insolence! Seriously, this last letter of the British Minister, is the most insolent communication that we recollect in the annals of diplomacy, and not only justifies Mr. Forsyth in declining further intercourse with the Caroline, but would justify the President in demanding his recall. We hope that each House of Congress will adopt some resolution upon the subject, which shall teach all foreign ministers at Washington who happen to be afflicted with ill temper and vulgar manners, that they cannot, with impunity, deport themselves disrespectfully towards our government.

According to the laws of nations, of which Mr. Fox is very ignorant or very deliberately regardless, a minister, or other diplomatic agent, represents his government, or is its organ of communication with the government to which he is appointed. To neither is he known as an individual; neither can he appear in private capacity. He can be recognized only as a political abstraction, a representative of a government. In his person the government which he represents is the only thing seen or heard, when he appears or speaks to the government which receives him; and in communicating with that government, he has no more right to represent any thing but his own government, to appear in any other than an official capacity, than he has to levy war against the first, or to commit treason against the last. To suppose that one government can treat with the subjects of another government upon public affairs, is preposterous; for besides the great departure from dignity which a government would exhibit, by placing itself on equal terms with the subjects of a foreign government, it would defeat the very object for which governments are established. The only legitimate object in establishing civil government, is to promote the convenience of men in the natural state, or state for which nature designs them, society. In other words, this object is to secure rights and enforce duties. This cannot be accomplished without an union of the individual wills of all the members of the community; and government is the means by which these wills are united or concentrated, and enabled to speak and act as one. Now if a government allows itself to be addressed upon national questions by the subjects of a foreign government, it recognizes millions of governments instead of one, and incurs the annoyance of multiplying questions and negotiations indefinitely, thus relinquishing all the advantages of government and incurring all the burdens of anarchy. If Mr. Fox, a British subject, may address our government upon the Boundary Question, urge pretensions against our natural rights, and draw our President, Secretary of State, and Minister to Britain into argument upon them, so may Mr. Wolf, or Mr. Bear, or Mr. Dragon, or Mr. Ass; any other British subject. If our public functionaries should tolerate such discussions with all of John Bull's cattle, they would have no time for any thing else; for Johnny would bring into the field an army of such disputants, afflicted with believing that they were competent to any thing, while really knowing little or nothing. To avoid these and other difficulties public functionaries, in discussing national questions, cannot be recognized as private capacities. Yet Mr. Fox, well knowing all this, for we cannot believe him so ridiculously ignorant as to know it not, has the insolent audacity to approach our Secretary of State with his own private opinions upon a national question. The private opinions of Mr. Fox? The private opinions of great persons, upon public affairs! What can our government care for the private opinions of Mr. Fox, or any other self-sufficient foreigner? It is enough for our public functionaries to be annoyed with the insolent tone and arrogant pretensions of official personages, speaking for their master, the nation which they represent, without the insult of approach by its subjects. This intrusion of Mister Fox, as such, as a private person, into a diplomatic correspondence with our government, is like that of a dirty dog into a parlor. He has no business there, and should be kicked out for his presumption. Mr. Forsyth has performed this pedal office very efficiently and very gracefully; for with perfect self-possession and sangfroid of manner, he has told the arrogant intruder that no further intercourse with him upon the subject will be tolerated.

To treat foreign functionaries among us with courtesy and respect, is due to ourselves, and to the nations which they represent. But when they forget what is due to us, and to their own governments, we must let them know that we can remember what is due to ourselves. We hope the independent press will speak in a tone that shall be a warning to public functionaries, who may feel disposed to forget our dignity as a nation.

A Kentockian visited a merchant at New York, with whom, after dinner, he drank wine and smoked cigars, spitting on the carpet, much to the annoyance of his host, who desired a spittoon to be brought for his troublesome visitor; and he never, pushed it away with his foot, and when it was replaced, he kicked it away and again, quite unaware of its use. When it had been three times replaced, the Kentockian drew it out to the servant who brought it,—"I tell you what—you've been pretty considerable troublesome with that 'ere thing, I guess; if you put it there again, I'm hung if I don't spit it in it."

In the French Chamber of Deputies on 20th February, M. Mermillou brought under notice the treaty recently concluded with Buenos Ayres by Admiral Mackau, by the presentation of a petition, signed by 1300 French residents at La Plata, against it. M. Mermillou complained that the instructions which had been given to Admiral Mackau by M. Thiers to obtain two positive conditions, namely—first, that France should be placed on the same footing as the most favoured nations; and secondly, that Buenos Ayres should pay an indemnity to the French subjects she had wronged—insufficient as he (M. Mermillou) considered them to be, had not been acted upon. The French admiral ought to have had an understanding with General Lavalle and Rivera, and he should not have given Roman an illegal title as President of the Argentine Republic. M. Guizot declared that Admiral Mackau had strictly fulfilled his instructions, and that the treaty would certainly be ratified by the French government.

A brig in a very deplorable condition was, we are informed, signalled to windward yesterday morning, and when outside of Curiale Bay, not showing any flag, a signal was made to her from the Seringapatam to show her number and to what country she belonged, when Spanish colours were hoisted. Suspicions existing that the vessel in sight was a slaver or pirate, the armed steamer Blazer was directed by Commodore Leith to get up her stern, when that officer, with 70 marines, started in chase of her. The wind being very light, they were soon alongside of the brig, which turned out to be a French man-of-war of 10 guns, bound from Mexico to Martique for repairs, having sustained damage in some blockade in which she was engaged along that coast. On being hailed from the Blazer, her commander asked if war had been declared against France by England, and that if so, he was willing to strike to the superior force of the steamer, having only two guns on board fit for use, and several of his crew being confined to their berths sick; his reasons for showing Spanish colours were, he understood the two countries were at war, and he hoped by that means to escape capture. The promptitude with which Commodore Leith acted on this occasion deserves great credit, and shows what reliance may be placed on his watchfulness in the hour of need.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE BRITISH PACKET.

Sir,
 Permit me through the medium of your paper most respectfully to ask the contractor, who the Calle del 25 de Mayo has of late been so insufficiently lit. It is true a few lanterns have displayed lights, but not by any means in proportion to the number intended to be lit.

A Resident in the Calle del 25 de Mayo.
 May 19, 1841.

 ers were six women, one of whom asserted that the only officer who had escaped was Captain Gregorio Sandoval of Lavalle's escort. General Benavides highly eulogises his troops, and states his loss at only one killed, viz.—a corporal of the horse grenadiers (L. M. Mercado)—the General adds, that from an intercepted letter from Lavalle to Sandoval, he was induced to think that an attack was meditated upon Rioja, and had therefore hastened there, but no foe had appeared, probably from having got news of defeat at Tucuman.

General Aldao in his note to Governor Rosas says, that the affair at Tucuman will paralyze the infamous projects of the unitarian wretches, who will soon cease to profane the sacred soil of the Argentine Confederation with their filthy footsteps.

Governor Rosas in his congratulatory reply to General Aldao, states that he will opportunely transmit to him an honorable recompense from the government to the officers, soldiers and friendly indians who fought at Tucuman.

Don Juan Isidro Maza, Governor of Mendoza, sent a congratulatory note to Governor Rosas on the triumph at Tucuman, the news of which had been communicated to him by the government of San Juan.

POSTSCRIPT.

It is so confidently believed that affairs are by this time settled in Tucuman, that we understand troops of carts are preparing to leave this place for that destination. La Madrid had set out for Salta in order to induce that government to take an active part in the war, but is supposed to have met with an unfavorable reception, as on his way back, having learnt the intelligence of the discomfiture of his friends in La Rioja and Catamarca, he sent for his family to join him, in a timely retreat. This manoeuvre having come to the knowledge of his confederates they tumultuously opposed the departure of his family, insisting upon the return of himself to share the common fate. Such was the state of things when Governor Urquiza reinforced by some squadrons of Buenos Ayres cavalry marched upon Tucuman, and subsequently President Oribe set out from Cordova with a strong division, whilst General Aldao pressed forward with his forces in another direction.

According to reports prevalent yesterday, the correctness of which we have not been able to ascertain, a reaction had already actually taken place in Tucuman, the result of which was the overthrow of the refractory government ofriedrabuena.
