N. 7841

BUENOS AYRES, SATURDAY, AUGUST 28, 1841.

[Vol. XVI.]

BUENOS AYRES.

Accounts from the Interior state that an action was fought in the beginning of this month between the federal troops of Catamarca under the command of Governor Balbos, and a detachment of La Madrid's forces, in which the latter were completely routed, with the loss of several officers of note, among them three or four quondam governors. Tucuman is represented as being besieged, and in a Cordova paper of the 16th inst., it is stated that a deputation of eleven of the principal inhabitants had been appointed to wait upon the Commanders of the Confederate forces, in order to avert the impending danger.

Alvarez and Riso Patron, of Cordova; Pueh, of Salta; and Gardillo, of Rioja; are the Chiefs, we believe, who fell in the action above alluded to.

From the Gaceta of 24th inst.

"The continued victories of the Confederation, the great events favorable to its cause which successively have been developed, and the moral force of justice and liberty, have reduced to the utmost straits and desperation the miserable unitarian mulatto Rivera and the other miscreant unitarians in Montevideo. The complete discredit into which he has fallen in public opinion, his want of resources, his wretched impotency, are so many notorious facts which combine to strengthen the triumphant cause of liberty. The mulatto Rivera, practically experiencing his vacillating position, is at present in Montevideo, reaping daily convictions of his absolute perdition. The illegal power which he exercises through usurpation escapes from his impure hands. Mystification, nor deceit can no longer avert from him the fate of the bandit and traitor.

"The Correntinos are tired of being the dupes of deceitful and perverse designs.

"We Argentine federals should congratulate ourselves on such signal blessings which the Almighty deigns to dispense to the just and holy cause of our dear and glorious Confederation."

The Gaceta of 24th inst., contains a variety of documents connected with the military operations in the Interior Provinces against Lavalle, La Madrid and Brizuela; the leading portions of which we have from time to time inserted in our columns. Amongst these documents is the despatch of General Aldao to Governor Rosas, relative to the defeat and death of Brizuela in the action at Safoyagata. It is dated head quarters Safoyagata, 20th 20, 1841, and states that Brizuela had 600 men, infantry and cavalry—the rout was complete, 210 of the infantry passed over to General Aldao at the commencement of the action, as did a body of cavalry subsequently—the latter had with them Brizuela himself, who had been wounded in the back by a musquet ball, of which wound he died ere reaching the head quarters of General Aldao.

The Rev. Nicolas Aldazor, Guardian of the Franciscan Monastery in this City, who had proceeded on a pacific mission to the insurrectionary government of Rioja, has in a letter to General Oribe dated Nonsagusta 19th ult., given an account of his sufferings on the occasion.—He was arrested by order of Brizuela, and whilst thus situated, endured every species of privation and indignity. On the 15th March he states that he and other prisoners were brought before the "Grand Sultan" Lavalle, who ordered the Rev. Gentleman and three others for execution within a quarter of an hour. The three last named were accordingly shot, the Rev. Gentleman witnessing the brutal butchery, but he was spared through the intercession of Don José Fermin Soage, Merchant of Cordova, who forced his way through a crowd of people to the judgment seat of the "modern Pliate," with whom he expostulated, telling him that the deed would inspire horror and disgust amongst the major part of his followers and be fatal to his cause. The rhetoric of Señor Soage made the desired impression on Lavalle, the Rev. Gentleman was saved from death, and says, that thanks to Providence, the triumphs of the armies of the Confederation and the exertions of his family, he is now free from the infernal trammels of the infamous unitarians implacable enemies of God and man.

The letter in question is very interesting, and was inserted in the Gaceta of 24th, in which paper is likewise the following—

The Governor of Buenos Ayres, charged with the Foreign Affairs and Commander in Chief of the united army of the Argentine Confederation,

To H. E. the Commander in Chief of the combined army of Cuyo against the recreant unitarians, Governor and Captain General of the Province of Mendoza, General José Felix Aldao.

Buenos Ayres, July 26th, 1841—
32nd year of the Liberty, 36th of the Independence, and 12th of the Argentine Confederation.

The undersigned has received the note of Y. E. of 30th June last, communicating the gratifying intelligence that in the action of the 29th was taken prisoner, the recreant unitarian Ramon Doria y Brizuela, miserable minister of Ross, and agent of the self-called commission of the recreant unitarians, whose correspondence directed to the recreant ringleader Brizuela Y. E. has likewise remitted to me.

The undersigned gratefully recognises in this fresh proof of the splendid victory at Safoyagata the justice of Heaven in chastising the iniquity and perfidy of the impious barbarous recreant unitarians.

God preserve Y. E. many years.

JUAN MANUEL DE ROSAS.

The Gaceta of yesterday contains copies of intercepted communications from the Commission of unitarian emigrants at Santiago de Chile, of which General Juan Gregorio de las Heras is the President, addressed to the late General Tomas Brizuela. These communications strongly urge the necessity of reprisals as being the only means of bringing the war against Rosas to a successful conclusion, so that those taken in arms fighting in his favor be instantly put to death, and that those who are lukewarm in the cause fearing to compromise themselves with Rosas and therefore decline to co-operate against him, should be given distinctly to understand that this will not save them, it being an incontrovertible truth in political matters that "the end justifies the means."

In the Gaceta of yesterday is also a note dated Buenos Ayres 12th inst., to Governor Rosas from Don Mariano Fraguero, stating that being about to return to Chili with his lady, he begs to offer his services to H. E., and to thank him for his many attentions—and that he has ever been an admirer of H. E.'s principles.

In one of the communications from the unitarian Commission in Chili—Señor Fraguero is named as one of its agents in Copiapo.

Official Documents.

The Gaceta of 21st inst., contains a list of individuals of the district of Bahía Blanca who have subscribed 1800 dollars currency in aid of the war against Lavalle, La Madrid and Rivera; and that of the 29th, details of various other donations for the same purpose.

The Brazilian corvette Seventh April, saluted the town with 21 guns on Thursday last, which was returned from the Fort by a like number.

She again saluted with 13 guns upon the occasion of Señor Luis de Souza Coutinho Lima, Brazilian Minister Plenipotentiary to this Republic, leaving her to come on shore. As the boat passed the Brazilian brigantine of war Argos in the inner roads, H. E. was saluted with 13 guns from that vessel.

THE WEATHER this week has been dry, with the exception of about three hours rain on Saturday morning—Thermometer 45 to 56.

PROBABLE FATE OF THE PRESIDENT.—Capt. Cole, of the ship Orpheus, left New York on the morning of the 11th April, in company with the Steamship President, and states that he was in sight of her until about sun-down on the evening of the 12th. On that day, lat. 39 46, the boat passed the President bearing N. E. by E., by the compass, steering E.—shortly after loss of sight of her. Captain Cole further states that when he last saw the President rising on the top of a tremendous sea she appeared to be pitching heavily and labouring tremendously. She was then situated in that dangerous part of the Atlantic Ocean, about mid-way between the Nanuetack Shoal and the St. George's Bank; just where the Gulf Stream strikes soundings, and where the waves are almost straight up and down, and as high as a four or five story house. That the President then must have been shipping seas heavily and fast; that probably these large bodies of water worked through into the engine room, or fire room, and extinguished the fires, in which case the steamer would have been comparatively helpless; that the storm was terrific all that night; the next morning the wind shifted suddenly from N. E. to S. E., knocking up a still more tremendous sea, and that the gale continued with unrelaxing fury till midnight of the 13th. And that it is his belief that the President did not survive that gale, but foundered with all on board, and that all perished before sun-down on the 13th, or in less than twenty four hours after he last saw her; and that most probably in the terrific night of the 12th of March.

In this opinion Captain Waite, and other naval gentlemen, seem to coincide.

From 'The Mirror,' London, May 22, 1841.

In the Times of 14th May, appear the following lines, which we are induced to transfer to our columns, from the sympathy universally felt upon their sad subject.

"THE PRESIDENT."

BY THE AUTHOR OF 'SCHELLA.'

SPEAK! for thou hast a voice, perpetual sea!
Lift up thy surges—with some signal word,
Shew where the pilgrims of the waters be,
For whom a nation's thrilling heart is stirr'd.

Down to thy waves they went in joyous pride,
They trod with steadfast feet thy billowy way;
The eyes of wondering men beheld them glide
Swift in the arrowy distance—where are they?

Didst thou arise upon that mighty frame,
And that the strength of man with thee should strive,

And proud thy rival element to tame,
Didst swallow them in conscious depths alive?

Or, shorn and powerless hast thou bade them lie,
Their stately ship a carcass of the foam?

Where still they watch the ocean and the sky,
And fondly dream that they have yet a home!

Dost thou hope still soothe their souls, a gladness thrill?
In peace amid those wanderers of the foam?

Say, is the old affection yearning still
With all the blessed memories of home?

Or is it over? Life and breath and thought,
The living feature and the breathing form?
Is the strong man become a thing of naught,
And the rich blood of rank no longer warm?

Thou answerest not, thou stern and haughty sea,
There is no sound in earth, or wave, or air,
Roll on, ye tears! oh, what can comfort be
To hearts that pant for hope, but breathe despair!

Nay, mourner, there is sunlight on the deep,
A gentle rambol on the darkling cloud;
A voice, more mighty than the floods, will sweep
The shore of tempests when the storm is loud!

What, though they wake the whirlwinds of the west,
Or rous'd the tempest from his eastern lair?
Or clave the clouds to shiver in his breast—
Lord of the awful waters, Thou wert there!

All-merciful! The fate—the day—were thine;
Thou didst receive them from the seething sea;
Thy love to deep, thy mercy to divine,
To quench them in an hour—unworthy Thine.

If storms were mighty, Thou wert in the gale!
If their feet fail'd them, in Thy paths they tread;

Man cannot urge the bark, or guide the sail,
Or force the quivering helm, away from God!

'Recollections of a Staff Surgeon.'

CONTINUATION OF EXTRACTS.

"The thing was plain enough—a palpable attempt at a bribe, to enlist even so humble an individual as myself, 'l'homme d'Empereur,' and to bind him down to future obedience by making him first commit himself in a wrong action.

"This did not altogether rest on Mr. O'Meara's assertion, as afterwards, in returning home from St. Helena, General Montholon assured me that the present was, bona fide, intended for me, and would have been sent if the above-mentioned difficulty had not come in the way."

"Mr. O'Meara was dismissed from the British service for having officially stated, or insinuated, that Sir Hudson Lowe had reborned him to poison Buonaparte, or sounded him respecting such a crime, nine or ten months before he made the communication to government. The Secretary of the Admiralty said, "You have either fabricated this most grave accusation, or it is a true bill. If it is false, you are unworthy to remain for a moment in the service; if, on the other hand, the horrid and improbable charge is true, you have grossly violated your duty in concealing such an atrocity so long." Now I do not perceive any way of escape from this dilemma.

"That a young major-general, appointed to one of the most important and lucrative commands in the gift of the Crown, should have lost sight of his own interest so far, as to desire to shorten the existence of the man, of whose losses carries aboard on the face of it, even putting out of sight any moral consideration of the question. If, as I believe was the case, Mr.

O'Meara wilfully misconceived some peevish expression of the Governor, in a moment of irritation, at some trattascerie going on at Longwood, and construed it into this horrid design or desire,—then, after brooding over it nine or ten months, made it the subject of an official charge,—I dispassionately think his conduct was wise, and that he richly merited dismissal from the service."

"Dr. Verling is an esteemed friend of mine; and I know that he was well qualified in every respect for the duty on which he was employed, being a clever and well-educated man, of gentlemanly and prepossessing manners, and of long military experience. After he had been four or five months resident at Longwood, overtures were one day submitted to his consideration by Count Montholon, of a very delicate nature; and after some preliminary matter, a formal proposal was made to him of a sum of money, equivalent to the principal of which his British pay was the interest, if he would agree, as Montholon expressed it, "'l'homme d'Empereur,'" This was indignantly rejected, and Dr. Verling reported immediately to Sir Hudson Lowe, accompanied by a request from Dr. Verling to be relieved from a post where he was subject to such an insult. The governor, however, would not concede to my friend's request, and Dr. Verling remained at Longwood till the arrival of Dr. Antommarchi."

"In February, 1821, it began to be known that Napoleon was seriously ill; and, in addition to his bodily sufferings, had lately undergone much mental distress from certain reports of the infidelity of the Empress Maria Louise, that had found their way to Longwood. He complained of constant pain at the pit of the stomach, with sickness and total loss of appetite; and suffered great agony from two or three months' succession, which Antommarchi prescribed. At length he declined all medicine, and flung the last potion that was offered out of the window.

"The state and ceremony which the Great Man still maintained amongst his dependents, sometimes carried to a ridiculous excess. No one was ever allowed to be covered in his presence in the garden or about the premises; nor even in his blindest mood, when conversing in great good humour with his suite, was any of the highest rank—even the Grand Marshal Bertrand—permitted to be seated. Up to the last hour of consciousness this etiquette was preserved, and Antommarchi more than once alluded to this in conversation; declaring that he had been often exhausted to the verge of fainting, by preserving a standing posture during his long attendances in the dying chamber.

"From the first, Napoleon appeared to be aware of the nature of the malady; referring it to disease of the stomach, of which his father died, and with which the Princess Borghese was threatened. Arnott assured me at the time that his patient would often put his hand on the pit of his stomach and exclaim—"Ah! mon pylore—mon pylore!"

"The 4th of May was an unusually stormy day in St. Helena, where the wind not only always blows from the same quarter, but is also for the most part of uniform strength. During the night it increased to a strong gale; and although the barracks at Francis' Plain were much sheltered, our little wooden houses shook as with an earthquake, and we were in momentary expectation of being blown into the neighbouring ravine. At two o'clock in the morning an officer of ours, who had slept at Plantation House the night before, came galloping to my door, bare-headed, and only half-dressed, with a summons for me to go instantly to the governor's—his youngest child being taken suddenly and dangerously ill.

"I found the little patient apparently gasping its last under a terrible attack of the cramp; and the peculiar distressing sound of the spasmodic and stridulous breathing audibly over half the house. "The child must instantly be bled," I said. "Good God, Sir," said Sir Hudson, "bleed an infant of this age?" "Yes," was the reply; "else the child will dead in ten minutes." "But, Doctor, you won't be able to find a vein." "We'll try." So the sufferer's arm was banded—a tiny vein opened, and when three ounces of blood had flowed, the breathing became comparatively quiet and easy; and as some medicine had been given, he child fell into a sound sleep.

"During my residence in St. Helena, opperunities of observing minutely the character of Sir Hudson Lowe were not wanting; and I believe nobody could fill all the ordinary relations of domestic life and of society better than this most calumniated man. He was, to my certain knowledge, a kind husband and father, and I believe, an excellent magistrate and civil governor."

Captain Herbert, of H. B. M.'s ship Calliopo, has been carrying all before him at Canton.—Sir J. J. Gordon Bremer thus writes to Lord Auckland upon the subject—

"On the 19th March, I was gratified by receiving a report from Captain Herbert, of Her Majesty's ship Calliopo, commanding the advanced squadron, detailing the various operations of that force in the attack and capture of the forts, deñences, and fortilla of Canton, and the hoisting the Union Jack on the walls of the British factory, the guns of the squadron commanding all the approaches to the city from the western and southern branches of the river, thus placing in our power the great provincial capital.

"This was brought about by the Chinese having fired upon a flag of truce, sent with a chop to the Imperial Commissioner at the desire of his Majesty's Plenipotentiary. The flotilla of boats of the squadron formed into four divisions under the command of Captains Boushiera and Bethune, of the Blouze and Censway; every arrangement having been completed, the force, as per margin,* moved in advance about noon, and engaged the batteries for about an hour, when the flotilla, with the marines, under the command of Captain Boushiera, was brought up in admirable order, and, upon the signal being given, stormed and completed the capture of the enemy's works, notwithstanding a most determined resistance on the part of the Tartar troops. 123 guns were mounted in the different forts; the loss of the enemy has been very considerable (upwards of 400 men); our casualties, happily to say, do not exceed six wounded.

"This blow was followed by an agreement on the part of the High Commissioner to a suspension of hostilities, and afterwards by the publication of an edict, declaring the trade to be opened, and that all British and other merchants proceeding to the provincial city shall receive due and perfect protection.

"I endeavoured to push forward the scene of action in the Hyacinth's gig, but only arrived towards its close, in sufficient time, however, to be gratified by the hoisting of the British colours. Thus for the first time in the history of China, have ships been brought under the very walls of Canton, and by channels and branches on which a foreign ship never before floated. I believe the Chinese were not acquainted with the capabilities of their splendid river; assuredly they had no idea that the second city in the empire could be assailed by ships of war on its waters; I trust that the fact will have its due influence on the authorities, and I have no doubt that the forbearance displayed towards a city so completely at our mercy as this is, will be appreciated by the better classes of the community, who have everything to lose, and the benevolence of the British character more fully understood than it ever yet has been in this country.

"The gratifying spectacle of our ships in this position is mostly attributable to the unwearied exertions of the captains, officers, and men belonging to them, in sounding the alarm inlets through which they passed, not a single Chinese pilot having been employed throughout.

"In conclusion, we may on this, as on former occasions, congratulate ourselves on this service having been performed without any loss of life on our side, and only seven wounded (severely); amongst whom is that gallant officer, Lieutenant Strassman, Royal Marines, of Her Majesty's ship Calliopo, Acting Brigade-Major."
