Adulteration of Government.

Lord John Russell, Political Druggist, late of Vienna, stated that he had had considerable experience in the practice of adulteration, more particularly in political drugs. Had examined several samples of Whig Government, and found them all perfectly pure. Absolute purity in most cases was unattainable, but the articles he had exercised his microscopic skill upon, were as free from deleterious matter as they could be, and he doubted strongly, if they were made any purer, whether the people of this country would like them half so well. He had found the specimen marked "Reformed Hill" extremely difficult to analyse. The difficulty principally lay in ascertaining precisely its "constituent" parts. He had been several years intent upon solving its various antagonistic elements, and he should persevere several years longer, until he clearly saw a proper settlement of them, though as one of the Old School, he was strongly averse to precipitating anything. Decidedly in all Governments a little adulteration was desirable, and he could recommend nothing better for the purpose than a few grains of Whig's Paradise, better known in the trade as "Elliott's Entire." About two or three dozen of these tender sprigs generally gave the ministerial mixture a fine bitter flavour, which made it go down wonderfully with the multitude, and did harm to nobody. Had examined a packet of Whig statements, and had detected in them no colouring matter whatever. Strongly believed that Whig principles had never been adulterated since the days of Magna Charta. Purity of representation was decidedly requisite to ensure a good constitution, and he begged to differ from that great authority, Mr. Copeck, whose wonderfully Laboratory at the Reform Club for the manufacture of votes was well known, inasmuch as it was his conviction that purity of representation did not necessarily require a large deposit of tin. Brass would do just as well, and in many cases went further. For instance, a few brass filings from some of the strongest pillars of the aristocracy were notoriously a capital thing for purifying the most corrupt channels of Government. Had repeatedly analysed the votes of the House of Commons, and never found anything but the purest motives in them. Had no particular test of ability, save Debreit's Peccage, and never knew that to fail.

THE RIGHT HON. B. DISRAELI.—Had principally devoted his time to the manufacture of retorts. He had brought them to the highest state of perfection, and his retorts were celebrated all over the world for discharging a greater number of sparks consecutively than any other. Their brilliancy would often illumine an entire House. Had often tried the power of his retorts on the Whigs, but they were such a dense body, that they had failed in making anything of an impression. The result of his analytical inquiries had all tended to one uniform result,—viz, that Whig Government was a regular drug in this country,—a drug so largely adulterated, that it could not be allowed for any length of time without doing the greatest injury to the strongest constitution. The only remedy he knew was a strong infusion of Tory Politics. Had submitted the principles of the Peace Party to analysis, and had detected in them a deleterious colour called "Drab," mixed up in large quantities with a popular fraud, of a pale transparent colour, called "Gladstone," which had been recently imported to a painful extent from St. Petersburg. He had applied the microscope to this "Gladstone," and, after reducing it to an impalpable powder, had succeeded in detecting in it, in the most tangible portions of its secret nature, a large preponderance of "Jesus's Bark" and, though he had divided this Bark into three heads—as though the Bark in question belonged to Cerberus [a laugh]—still he had not found much to repay him for the search in either head. He certainly had not been able to detect in the whole composition of "Gladstone" a single grain of sense [general expression of surprise]. This revelation might be a startling one, but still it was based upon the most careful analyses,—each one painfully arrived at, only after the most minute divisions and sub-divisions of character. However, the effect of this "Drab" mixture was unquestionably very enervating; and when administered in large doses, created nausea, and moreover had the curious effect of making people quarrel! The most dangerous results were to be apprehended from a general use of this irascible narcotic.

Mr. J. A. ROEBUCK, the popular lecturer of Sheffield, deposed that he had examined innumerable quantities of Parliamentary Loaves and Fishes, marked both "Whig" and "Tory," and really it was difficult to say which of the two contained the greater mass of impurities. Both were grossly unfit for public consumption. It was, indeed, wonderful, how the Body Politic could have existed so long upon such corrupt aliment. The power of vitality must have been great indeed, to have withstood such daily encroachments on its strength. However, it was time that a stop was put for once and for ever to the circulation of such deleterious poisons, and a thoroughly healthy system of government introduced for the nourishment of the people. The whole heap of adulterations must be swept clean out of the national shop, and for the future nothing but the plainest political food of the most simple and invigorating kind administered to the public. As we value the future health of England, it was expedient that Adulteration should be deposed from the throne of Government it too long has occupied, and Purity henceforth reign in its stead [loud symptoms of approval, with difficulty restrained by the Court].

LORD JOHN RUSSELL was recalled, and said that he still had hopes of being able, in the course of time, to find a solution of the Reform Bill. The witness, being closely questioned, was evidently at a loss to fix any particular period. Punch.

BUENOS AYRES, OCTOBER 5th 1855.

The undersigned has the honor to acquaint His Excellency The Minister of Government and Foreign Affairs of the State of Buenos Ayres that he has received a representation from the Curators appointed by him to the Intestate Estate of the British subject Fred. J. Kauffman, informing him that shortly after the notification of their appointment they received an order from the Tribunal of 1st Instance, directing them to hand in an inventory of the Property under their charge and that the Tribunal further refused to recognize their acts in respect to the management of the property unless they submitted entirely to the control of the Tribunal and that in consequence of this interference the official Registrar of Mortgagee following up the opposition has refused to cancel a Mortgage at the request of the Mortgagee who offered payment to the Curators, thereby vexatiously impeding the closing of this transaction.

The U. S. has been made aware at the same time, that the Curators having appealed at law against this interference and obstruction have in reply been served with a similar order, confirming the former one, founded on the opinion annexed to it of the Fiscal of the Supreme Court, which opinion is based on an erroneous interpretation of the 13th article of the Treaty between Great Britain and the Argentine Confederation, and which if persisted in by the Courts of Buenos Ayres would prevent the Curators from performing freely and without interference those duties entrusted to them in their Consular appointment.

It behoves the U. S. therefore to request that H. E. will be pleased to give due effect to the authority invested in the said Curators by the U. S. to administer and take charge of the said property, feeling convinced that independently of, and notwithstanding the opinion of the said Fiscal, which cannot be accepted by the U. S. as any authority on the subject, H. E. the Minister will take measures to prevent all violations whatever of the Treaty in respect to the clear and distinct stipulation made for the management of British Intestate Property, without interference, by Curators nominated by the Consul, in order that the impediments now placed by the Courts in contradiction of the wording, the intention and the spirit of the said 13th article may be speedily removed.

The U. S. thinks it expedient now to call the special attention of H. E. to this subject, inasmuch as he has received instructions from his Government to express to the Government of Buenos Ayres, that the answer given to him on a similar question by H. E. predecessor Dr. Portela under date the 24th July 1854 was not satisfactory to H. M's Government.

REPORT OF DR. GARCIA, JUDGE OF 1ST INSTANCE.—

The undersigned in obedience to the decree of Y. E. has the honour of submitting the legal grounds of the decisions given in the affairs of the British Subject Don Fred. J. Kauffman, who died intestate. It is perhaps the first time that an Agent of H. B. M. has presented a complaint of the uniform interpretation that has been given to the article of the Treaty of amity, commerce and navigation of 1825, by the Tribunals of Buenos Ayres; a circumstance, Most Excellent Sir that argues either an inexplicable apathy, on the part of the Agents of that Government during the long term of 30 years, or a novelty introduced into the present administration of justice, in applying the aforementioned article to the case of the deceased Kauffman.

The undersigned is the more surprised at this reclamation, in that he is convinced of the uniform meaning given to said article, (in the sense that he has given to it) by the Tribunals of Buenos Ayres; that one of the parties entrusted with the negotiation of the Treaty, having resided for many years in Buenos Ayres, should never have entertained the idea of sustaining the principle now invoked by the present Vice-Consul of H. B. M., and that it never called the attention of the Negotiator or of the other Ministers, Consuls or Vice-Consuls that succeeded him.

The British Vice-Consul maintained in this Court, his exclusive right of intervention in the affairs of the late Kauffman, saying that the letter of the 18th Article, gave him this exorbitant right, without any further obligation on his part than that of giving notice to the Public Authorities of the appointment of the Curators. It cannot be disguised that said right accorded to the Consul General, or his representative, of nominating Curators, and confiding to them the property of an intestate person, for the benefit of his lawful heirs and creditors, without any interference, is far from importing the separation of the Judicial Authority, or its incompetency, as regards the inventory of the property of a deceased British Subject, who died without leaving a will. If in cases such as that of Kauffman, a certain intervention has been conceded, by express compact, to the Consul-General of H. B. M. and reciprocally, it has been to place that property under the immediate guardianship of a compatriot, whose mission is destined to protect the interests of his fellow-countrymen in a foreign land, depriving of the ordinary Tribunals of the official right of appointing a less eligible Trustee perhaps less zealous in defending the right that springs out of such a situation in the affairs of a foreigner, either as regards his lawful heirs or creditors. But to pretend from this Article, that the jurisdiction of the Tribunals of the Country is excluded from the right of interfering in these testamentary affairs, so that the lawful claims of those who invoke the quality of creditors or of successors, in which we must reckon the State in which the inheritance is situated, cannot be discussed before them; to pretend that the British or Argentine Consuls are constituted the exclusive judges of the right created by such a state of things, is a pretension that could never afford motive for serious doubt, to the Judges of H. B. M., as it cannot to us.

The legitimacy of the preferent claims alleged to the inheritance of the property of an intestate British Subject in Buenos Ayres, and of an Argentine in England; the unquestionable right of either of the States to inherit those who leave no heirs, must be decided by the judgment and discretion of the Consular Agents?—and overlooking what it would import, as a renunciation of local sovereignty, a supposition not to be entertained, where would be the reciprocity, should the legislative codes be found discordant, as to the manner and form of the succession, according to the principles established by private national law?—

The Treaty of 1825 has made in this respect a notable innovation in the practice followed in consequence of the Instruction of the 26th August 1776, at present in vigor, the same as it was at the date of the Treaty invoked. The British Consul has the exclusive right of intervention in the appointment of the mere administrators of the property of an intestate person; but in all relative to said property, they must conform to the laws, to which the property is subject by its allocation.

The undersigned concludes by stating that this is the explanation which he has had occasion to hear often than once from the Negotiator of the Treaty in question, on the part of the Argentine Government; and he is the more confirmed in the legality of the proceedings that he has dictated in the present case, in that the Tribunals have uniformly applied the interpretation given by the undersigned as Crown Lawyer. This is all he has the honor to report; remitting the corresponding testamentary Process. October 16th, 1855.

MANUEL R. GARCIA.

N. B.—The report of the Supreme Court of Justice is founded principally on the preceding opinion of Dr. Garcia, and a certificate from the Notary Public of the Mortgage Office, in which he denies the charge advanced by Mr. Parish; the Minister of Foreign Relations in his answer, transcribing the whole as an accepted expose of the views and policy of the Administration,

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "BRITISH PACKET."

MY DEAR SIR,

In your number of the 21st May 1853, you kindly noticed my new musical system. These remarks have in these last days received an indorsement, that to myself enhances them above all value, and I fancy cannot be indifferent to you as their author.

Contrary to all probability or possible expectation, the world-famous THALBERG, is at present a resident in Buenos Ayres. Having had the good luck of being introduced to him, he gave his kind or rather gracious permission to me of explaining to him the general principles of my system. And he not only attentively listened to me, but generously and cordially commended it; besides pointing out an improvement [which I gratefully acknowledge], and which no other mortal would have been capable of doing.

Encouraged by his condescension and urbanity, I also showed him your article. He read it, and said "it is plain truth, nothing else;" and as an evidence of his sincerity, took a pen and wrote on the margin: "perfectly true.—S. Thalberg."

To myself it was a moment of intense satisfaction; and I hope it will also afford you a pleasing sensation to know, that a number of your journal bears the autograph of so illustrious, so worthy and so good a man.

Of the courtesy, magnanimity and condescension shown towards me by this greatest of masters, I am unable to speak. No words can express my feelings—although he, with his generous and polite way of expressing himself says: "I only recognise plain truth." But my prayer is, that heaven may long spare him, as an ornament to our race, and a blessing to the art he has elevated.

Please insert these imperfect and hurried remarks in your first number, that, amidst other well-earned trophies, as a great artist,—he may bear with him this humble but but ingenuous acknowledgement of my gratitude and veneration for the most liberal and noble minded man I ever met.

Believe me,

My dear Sir,

Your grateful and sincere friend,

C. E. SOEDLING.

BUENOS AYRES.

FALL OF SEBASTOPOL.

We have news from the Crimea, via Ma, laga and Montevideo, to the 12th September, and have at last the supreme satisfaction of announcing to our readers the fall of Sebastopol, and the annihilation of the Russian fleet in the Black Sea.

At mid-day of the 8th the signal was given for the assault of the Malakoff. The impetuosity of the attack was irresistible, and the deadly struggle was of short duration. The allies remained masters of the redoubted position, and the Russians, dismayed and panic struck by its loss, abandoned their other positions, and before evening commenced evacuating the citadel.

The guns of the Malakoff now bore on every part of the town and bay; and by three of the following morning, the ill fated inhabitants were in precipitate flight, leaving behind them the epitome of another Moscow. The city was one mass of flame; and the squadron of the mighty Czar had disappeared in the waters of the bay.

The entire city of Sebastopol properly so called, with its suburbs, including the Malakoff, the Redans, and all its land and sea defences, remained in power of the allies, with immense establishments and military stores of all kinds, abandoned by the enemy in their flight.

The garrison, and part of the population, had crossed the bay by the floating battery that guarded the entrance of the harbour, and were concentrated in forts Constantine and Catharina; and to prevent pursuit the bridge itself was also destroyed.

In these operations the loss of the allies has been, as was to be expected, very heavy. That of the British, in killed and wounded, is estimated at 2,000; including 26 officers killed and upwards of 100 wounded. That of the French at 4,000 killed, and from 7 to 8,000 wounded; in round numbers 12,000, including 13 officers.

The Russian loss is more uncertain, but supposed to be not less than 15,000. Taken in the abstract, these are sickening details; but compared with the magnitude of the enterprise, and the results that must ensue it must be allowed that we could not have expected so great a triumph at a cheaper price.

Among the wounded is General Bosquet, who led the attack on Malakoff; fortunately his wound is not considered mortal. The other names mentioned are Generals Corchu, Mellinet, More, Mahon, and Bourbavie; but circumstantial details are of course wanting, and for these we must await the arrival of the Southampton Mail steamer; fortunately now a short pittance. In acknowledgement and reward of his services in the Crimea, General Pelissier has been promoted to the rank of Marshal of France.

The sensation produced here on Wednesday morning, when the news arrived by the Menai, was intense; and we understand that liberal libations were made at the shrine of Bacchus, to the health of the survivors, and the memories of the fallen brave. It was also proposed that the resident allies, the British, French and Sardinians, should make a joint demonstration of their sympathy and adhesion to the cause of their compatriots; and we believe the idea is only postponed till the official receipt of the news by the ensuing packet. As a sample of good feeling, we may mention the fact, that one enthusiastically patriotic gentleman authorised us to put down his name for 5000 dollars towards the necessary expenses. With such a spirit in the ascendant it may easily be made a magnificent, and at the same time a beneficent demonstration.

DIPLOMATIC CORRESPONDENCE.—We direct attention to the note of Mr. Parish and the Official Opinion of Dr Garcia: our remarks on the point at issue, are inevitably postponed.

THE INDIANS.—As regards the South, another week of mortal anxiety. On the 9th a party penetrated as far as the Arroyo Chico, from Tandell 12 or 14 leagues inland; burning, destroying, and carrying off cattle wherever they came. Of the extent of their depredations, we are still ignorant; but it is with reason feared to be the most disastrous invasion that has yet taken place. We have this information from sources that leave no doubt on our mind as to its truth; and we hold it both cruel and impolitic, to conceal or disguise the real state of the case.

LATEST HOUR.—We know that the Southampton steamer arrived at Rio on the 3d, and brings a confirmation of the news already received here. All doubts or misgivings may therefore be dismissed.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.

MIRACULOUS CURE OF GENERAL DEBILITY.

Translation of a letter from Babo Sorbieze Chetty of Allahabad, dated 17th of October 1854.

To Professor Holloway,

Sir—For a number of years I suffered most intensely from general debility, disordered state of the liver, together with melancholy and drowsy feelings, which were horrible in the extreme. I had recourse to some of the most celebrated native physicians, but in vain; strange to state, my malady only increased. Being a strict Mussulman, I knew not what to do, (as the preparations of Europeans are forbidden by our holy religion) but after wavering between two opinions for some time, I determined to try your Pills, and by the grace of Allah, they have been the means of my restoration to health. Although fifty-eight years of age, I am now as agile as a boy, and have renewed vigor in every sense of the word. I am, Sir, your obedient servant, Babo Sorbieze Chetty.

(Signed) BABO SOBIEZE CHETTY.

AN INFALLIBLE REMEDY FOR DROPSY. Extract of a letter from the Rev. Octavian Martin of the London Mission, dated Manchin, May 19th 1854.

To Professor Holloway,

Sir—Among my various travels, I have observed with great satisfaction the beneficial effect of your Pills in many cases where medical skill has been deficient, particularly in dropsy. A most remarkable instance occurred (answering this description) five months ago, and has ever been present since to my imagination. I deem myself therefore bound to make you acquainted with the facts. A poor woman, at this place, who appeared to me to be on the verge of death, was suffering dreadfully from this complaint she was tapped eight times, within six months, I visited her myself, and gave her a box of your Pills, and after taking them, she seemed better, she continued them, unperceived for about nine weeks, when she was perfectly cured; and has since through the blessing of Providence enjoyed the best of health. They are truly invaluable remedies for females at the time of life, and for young women with obstructions in their health. Yours truly, Octavian Martin.

WONDERFUL CASE!—DEATH ROBBERED OF ITS VICTIM! ASTHMA CURED.—AFTER GIVEN UP BY ALL!! Copy of a letter from Chas. Smith, Esq., of Buenos, dated March 12th, 1854.

To Professor Holloway,

Sir—I have been a resident here for the last seven years, and during the whole of that time, (fill with in the last five months) suffered incessantly with asthma, attended with continual spitting of blood, which completely shook my constitution and deprived me of rest both day and night. I consulted a number of medical men at this station, but unfortunately my case was entirely great, and my friends reluctantly admitted that all hope of recovery was past. In this pitiable condition I commenced using your Pills, after continuing them for five, the worst symptoms of my disorder disappeared, and in three months I was completely cured. I still enjoy the best of health, and now wish the most simple food.

I remain Sir, your obliged Servant, (Signed) CHARLES SMITH.

LIVER COMPLAINT OF FOURTEEN YEARS DURATION! Copy of a letter from Mrs. Jane Thompson, (Widow of Lieut. Thompson, of Dartmouth, dated the 1st of July, 1854.

To Professor Holloway,

Sir—For fourteen years I was in the most delicate state of health, suffering continuously from liver complaint and indigestion, the least thing disturbing me from attending to my ordinary avocations, although my diet was the most simple and regular. Fortunately about ten months ago, when my health seemed totally to have fled, a friend kindly advised me to try your Pills, which after some persuasion I commenced to use. I must confess they quickly produced a change for the better, and by continuing them, every symptom of my disorder disappeared, and I am now perfectly cured; my health being better than it has been for the last fifteen years. I ought not to forget to mention, that my daughter, aged sixteen who suffered considerably for two years, has just been restored to health by your invaluable Pills. I am, Sir, an advocate for your system of medicine, and your obedient Servant, (Signed) JANE THOMPSON.

These celebrated Pills are wonderfully efficacious in the following complaints.
