FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE.

The Paris Correspondent of the Liverpool Northern Daily Times, under date the 13th Nov., gives the following summary:—

Peace is still talked of, in spite of the apparent hopelessness of it, and talked of too in circles which in conserved newspaper phrase are "ordinarily well informed." I am assured positively that both England and France have declared they are still disposed to treat on the bases of the four guarantees, provided, of course, Russia first prays for peace, as an acknowledgment that she is beaten. I hear also that the Emperor of the French has declared that if Russia does not seize the present opportunity of making peace the Allies "will cross the Rubicon" a phrase which must, I suppose, be interpreted to mean that they will have recourse to all manner of lawful means to compel the submission of Russia—that is to say will excite Poland and other provinces to revolt, and will force Austria and Prussia to declare for her, if they dare.

I find that the state of the relations with the United States excites some disquietude in official circles, but I have not been able to learn that there are any other causes for it than what is generally known. On the Bourse today speculators took alarm at the American minister in London having, as they said, abstained from attending the Lord Mayo's banquet.

The Constitutionnel of the 13th November publishes a letter from Constantinople which confirms what I stated yesterday as to an attack of the Russians upon the Allies being expected.

But it says also the Allies were on their guard and had strengthened their advanced posts. They were also preparing formidable works at Sebastopol for battering down the northern forts. Omar Pacha, the despatch adds, was taking up his winter quarters at five miles to the interior. A letter from Erzeroum says that the Russians had received reinforcements of 15,000 men before Kars, but that they had restricted the siege to one side of the fortress. This statement, however, seems a very extraordinary one.

The Emperor and Empress yesterday took up their residence at the Tuileries for the winter.

A telegraphic despatch from Hamburg, of to-day, announces that General Carobert had been received by the king with the usual ceremonies accorded to ambassadors extraordinary, and he had presented his Majesty with the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honour. In this city the greatest confidence continues to be entertained that the more serious part of the General's mission—the alliance of Sweden with England and France—will be successful.

The telegraph from Madrid informs us that disturbances have taken place at Saragossa owing to the exportation of corn, but that Gen. Espartero had announced his firm determination to maintain order.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 4.—Owing to a misunderstanding of a password, a Turkish sentinel fired on a Russian soldier. The result was a sanguinary conflict between the troops of the Pashah. Three more regiments of Turkish Cossacks are to be formed in Asia.

Persia has been applied to by the Allies to allow a passage through their territories, for an Anglo-Indian army to cooperate in Asiatic Turkey.

From Sebastopol under date of the 3d, we learn that extensive and extraordinary vaults have been discovered under Fort Nicholas, but great secrecy is observed as to their contents.

OPENING OF THE BELGIAN CHAMBERS.—The King of the Belgians, on Tuesday, opened the Chambers in person. His Majesty spoke to the following effect:—

"I receive with gratification continued proofs of the sympathy and the confidence of foreign governments.

"My son, in his recent visit to several European nations, has also convinced himself of the high rank which our beloved country holds among the several nations.

"The necessity of alleviating the sufferings and supplying the wants of the poorer classes of my subjects, induces me to claim your support for measures to control the high prices which so severely press upon the humbler people.

"I have to congratulate you on the high distinctions earned by the specimens of Belgian art and industry, which our countrymen have contributed to the Exposition Universelle, about to close in Paris.

"We have commemorated the twenty-fifth anniversary of our independence. If that independence have produced happy results, if it be respected and viewed with a friendly feeling by all nations, we owe that friendship and sympathy to the moderation and straightforwardness which form the bases of our national character, and to the policy we have hitherto pursued."

A meeting of the Irish bar was held yesterday in the Court of Admiralty, Dublin, for the purpose of taking into consideration the best mode of paying a suitable mark of respect to the memory of the late Lord Chancellor Pender.

THE TELEGRAPH IN CANADA.—Canada (says the New York Courier), has now 3,400 miles of telegraph wire in operation. The last link of the ending on Lake Huron, at Goodrich, was finished last week, and business commenced.

FLOODS IN ITALY.—A letter from Milan, of the 4th, states, that the Po has overflowed its banks at several points, and that at Casola the water has risen to the first floors. The police and gendarmery have had to leave their quarters. At Mantua, the Po being there joined by the Mincio and Oglio, several quarters of the town, and part of the province, are under water.

A telegraphic message has been received from Aberdeen, stating that the American whaler-ship John Henry, fell in with the Resolute, Arctic discovery ship, off Cape Mercy, Davis straits. The master and crew of the American whaler have abandoned their own ship and taken charge of the Resolute. The Resolute was abandoned in the Arctic regions by Captain Hall, in the late voyage to the North Pole, and the remains of Sir John Franklin.

DECREASE OF RUSSIAN COMMERCE.—The Times, in a leader, shows the great falling off in the foreign commerce of Russia, and it estimates that her exports are at this moment probably not a tenth of what they were two years ago.

RESULTS OF THE LATE HARVEST.—Mr. James Caird writes a letter to the Times respecting this year's wheat crop in England. It has now been tested in all parts, and while the yield is found to be considerably short of the great crop of last year, and in some particular districts—owing to special circumstances—it is very defective, yet, on the whole, it is believed to be nearly an average produce per acre, over much beyond an average to assume. Mr. Caird thinks it will be prudent to assume the yield to be something below an average, and he calculates the apparent deficiency to be supplied from abroad at 2,812,500 quarters, being little more than one-half of the average annual importation of the last five years. The lateness of the harvest and the economy of consumption caused by high prices must, however, be calculated, and the latter would reduce to little more than 1,000,000 qrs. of wheat and flour—the quantity for which we shall be dependent on foreign supply. There can be little doubt that the present rate of prices will secure this supply from America and Egypt—even should the northern European ports be closed against us by the defective crops and high prices anticipated abroad. Mr. Caird cannot ask for his figures any greater dependence than may be given to the result of individual inquiry and observation, and a pretty accurate knowledge of all the wheat growing districts of Great Britain.

DISURBANCES AT THE LEWES WAR PRISON.—On Monday afternoon, considerable excitement prevailed in the town, in consequence of a large body of the Fins in the war prison, having openly displayed signs of a disorderly and riotous disposition. Two of their companions were about to be discharged under orders from the Admiralty, and rumours concerning the reason of their discharge were about among the other prisoners, of a character which excited a very bitter rancour in their breasts. Having as they imagined, learned the period when the two in question were about to leave the precincts of the prison, they rushed out of the hall with shouts and threats of vengeance, not only against their former companions, but also the governor. Lieutenant Mann rushed out and met them as they were advancing to the office. With great promptitude and courage he threw himself upon them, and, with the assistance of the warders, checked the advance of the foremost, and ultimately bore them back beyond the gate. In a very short space of time after receiving orders the pensioners arrived on the scene of action in a body, with their muskets and fixed bayonets. Disregarding, however, the warning to retire, the Fins maintained their position until the order for the charge was given and executed, when they retired before "cold steel" like a flock of sheep with a dog at their heels. Having got them into the common hall, the governor coolly went among them, and drafted them off to their respective cells. The Fins themselves will be the only sufferers in consequence of the riot. The indulgences which have been gradually extended to them since their former escape will be again restricted. Sussex Express.

INVASIONS.

This social malady has become chronic, and it will cost the future historian some trouble to narrate and explain the series of invasions we have experienced during the past year; and so far 1856 bids fair to follow in the footsteps of its predecessor.

Since the affair of the Tala, none of the many invasions we have suffered, has been met or repulsed in a becoming manner, and the best proof of this is the undeniable fact of their frequent recurrence. It is no longer a matter of fancy or theory, but a stern reality, that comes home to every man's bosom and business. Hitherto they have been comparatively bloodless and innocuous; but consumption, though slow and insidious in its advances, is not less certainly fatal than apoplexy; and when we see so many attacks of cramp in the extremities, we have good reason to apprehend congestion of the brain.

Blind to the real danger, or lulled by false assurances, there are those who have been proclaiming, and continue daily to proclaim, peace, peace, just their hopes, and their lives, are drawn in this intermittent fever of excitement and quasi anarchy, that prostrates our present energies, and beclouds our future prospects. Brought to the test of fact and experience, they are little better than the incoherent ravings of delirium, that indicate an advanced and hopeless stage of the distemper.

"These announcements it is true, says the Nacional of yesterday, are only rumours, but that does not prevent the movement of forces, the citation of the National Guards, and the derangement of our daily occupations.

"The most complete, the most absolute tranquillity reigns in Buenos Ayres, and we entertain no fear, nor does the generality of our inhabitants entertain any fear, that it can be disturbed, so important are the elements, and so small the circle of the anarchists. But neither does this prevent the indefinite prolongation of an insupportable situation, with the risk of exposing the country to serious disasters."

We cannot comprehend the argumentation of this and other passages. We cannot conceive the co-existence of the most complete, the most absolute tranquillity, and the indefinite prolongation of an insupportable situation; not can we reconcile the absence of all fear, with the risk of exposing the country to serious disasters. It is too serious a matter to be disposed of in this manner.

Before proposing remedies, we must try to discover the real sources or causes of the distemper. The first and principal of these we consider to be the vicious organization of our rural militias, or rather the arbitrary system to which the peasantry have always been subjected. That a simple Justice of Peace, should have the power to classify his fellow citizens as vagrants, and remit them without check and without appeal to the ranks as veteran soldiers, shocks all our ideas of justice, expediency and constitutionality. It is a virtual delegation of extraordinary powers, in express contravention of our fundamental compact.

In the United States a slave is not admissible to the ranks. We unhappily invert that order, and place beyond the pale of law, a large proportion of the men to whom we confide the defence of our interests, our rights, and our institutions. We exact fidelity, while we debilitate the strongest motives that can inspire or ensure it.

Hence the inevitable depression of the service, and the consequent insubordination and desertion, of which we have latterly had so many examples; and which must continue, on a greater or less scale, so long as the present system is adhered to.

In this respect the Constitution of this State and that of the Confederate Provinces have rendered and are rendering a most essential service to the cause of liberty, whilst they weaken in the meantime the hands of the Executive; and we hardly regret the temporary inconveniences that necessarily result from the transition state through which we are passing.

The gaucho classified as a vagrant, knows and feels himself to be the victim of an act of injustice; and so long as that class makes up a large proportion of the veteran force, no reliance can be placed on their fidelity especially when exposed to the fatigue and privations of the frontier service. He will desert if he can, and to a certain extent feels justified in joining the standard of any malcontent who has the address to persuade him that he will redress his wrongs and restore him to the domestic hearth.

The accumulation of this class in neighbouring Province of Santa Fé, is a permanent threat, and danger to the order and tranquillity of the State. It is an evil that should be avoided by every means within our reach; through we consider the proposal of an amnesty at the present moment, when a new act of invasion has been consummated, altogether impolitic and inopportune. The invasion must be repelled by force; after which a deed of amnesty will appear an act of generosity, which at present would be construed into a confession of weakness.

Above all, it is necessary that the system of arbitrary classifications and forced levies be abandoned for ever. If men cannot be induced to enter the service voluntarily, every man liable to serve in town and country, must be subjected to the ballot: which, in accordance with the law, in terms of the cause, and we are entitled to the appearance of the effects. Present course, and we can only to the recurring cycle of revolts, desertions, &c, and reactions.

INCREASED POPULARITY OF THE WAR IN FRANCE.—One good result at least has been obtained from the lion's share that fell to France in the capture of Sebastopol. The almost exclusive glory of that exploit has flattered and aroused the nation. Thousands who were, or feigned to be, indifferent to the war, have now thrown all their interests and all their energies into it. Regiments under orders to depart for the Crimea welcome with enthusiasm a summons received formerly with aversion. The war until now not universally popular with even the French army has of a sudden become some. London Examiner.

ASTOUNDING INTELLIGENCE.—The Tribuna of this morning, under the head of news from the North says:—

"By a courier from Sarate, that left here yesterday at 1 a. m., and arrived here at 10 p. m., the news had been received that Don José Maria Cullen, Governor of Santa Fé, has been ousted by Urquiza, for having shown himself hostile, it is supposed, to the marauding invasions of Flores & Co., and that Gen. Lopez (alias Mascareilla) has been appointed in his place."

"These news, adds our contemporary, are serious, and would render manifest the complicity of Urquiza in the disturbances that are taking place in our rural districts; but though persuaded thereof we await the official confirmation of the news to give them entire credit."

THE SITUATION.—The same journal, which in general has access to the best information, speaking of the situation, says:—

"We can understand the anxiety of our readers to have definite information regarding the situation; but we regret to say that up to this moment there is nothing certain known."

By letters received by the Government it is known that Gerónimo Costa and others had embarked at Montevideo with upwards of 200 men, shaping their course to the South of this State.

This has given rise to the rumour that they had disembarked at the Tuyú; but we know that up to the present moment the Government has no certain information on the point."

This pretended ignorance of the Government, on a point of such vital importance, and so near at hand, is incomprehensible; and the inference is, that they must know more than they choose to confide to the public.

The Minister of War, started yesterday afternoon, not for the South, as was expected, but for the North; which seems to indicate some danger still more imminent in that quarter
